Summary

[Self-promotion and motivation] As a freelance videographer, my strength is carrying a production through from planning and filming to color grading in DaVinci Resolve, all on my own. I have worked on many client projects, including promotional videos for Glide Japan, music videos in Japan and overseas, and videos for real apparel brands.

I now want to move beyond solo production and learn professional team workflows and advanced direction on larger-scale projects. I hope to join your creative team, which "moves people's hearts," and contribute my agile shooting and editing skills and the international perspective I have as an international student. In the future, I hope to work as a bilingual video director in Japan.
